Medicine Lodge Attorney Celebrates Major Career Milestone

BY FAITH COULTAS
Staff Writer

GOERING

Local attorney Alan Goering is celebrating a major milestone in his career – 50 years of practicing law.

The Kansas BAR Association and the Washburn Law School recently recognized his major accomplishment.

Goering graduated from McPherson High School and after graduating, he started his post-graduate studies at McPherson College before transferring to the University of Kansas where he got his degree in education. He was later admitted to law school at Washburn, in Topeka, graduating with his degree in 1976.

Goering wanted to work in the legal field from a young age, first turning in an essay in his fifth-grade civics class and then moving on to being part of his high school's debate and forensics teams, solidifying his love for speaking in front of people and the art of persuasion. "I was a debater in high school and involved in forensics, so I guess the idea of standing up and talking to people and trying to persuade people was something that I always enjoyed and participated in," Goering said.

Goering worked in various jobs while attending law school and then shortly after, including interning for the Federal Public Defender's Office in Kansas City over a summer, as well as interning with the U.S. Attorney's Office in Topeka.

He moved to Medicine Lodge

when he took his first full-time job at an established law office after taking the BAR exam in 1976 and has served the community ever since.

Goering is a general practice attorney, meaning he takes on various types of cases and works hard to advocate for each client he takes on.

"We have a general practice, so that involves a lot of things that come up in a general practice and a rural area," he said. "We are involved in estates, probate, trusts, domestic work, criminal defense, contract preparation – I do a lot of litigation and practice actively not just in Barber County but also in Comanche, Pratt, Kingman and Harper counties."

Goering has been involved in several major decisions over the years, including helping to create new laws, standards and methods used at the state level to benefit the children involved in court cases to help ensure their interests and rights are protected.

"For a number of years I have been involved in the Kansas Supreme Court Permanency Planning

As Data Centers Dominate Conversations, Where Does the Ogallala Aquifer Stand?

Agriculture is the largest employer in Kansas and has a total contribution of $76 billion to the local economy. This statistic accounts for crops as well as Kansas' large cattle industry, which serves as the single largest agricultural product that Kansas produces.

The Ogallala Aquifer is one of the largest freshwater reserves in the world. At 174,000 square miles that expands to eight states, it's Kansas' most productive groundwater reservoir. However, the depleting reservoir has been a topic of discussion for decades, as work to ensure a longer lifespan for Kansas' most productive groundwater reservoir continues.

Approximately 85 percent of all groundwater used in Kansas is specifically used for irrigation, the process of introducing a water source to crops and plants instead of sole reliance on rain.

Livestock, one of Kansas's largest industries, is not separate from groundwater, and particularly the Ogallala. For example, the Friona Cattle Feeders North #2 in Satanta, Kansas, is the largest feed lot in the state with approximately 139,000 head of cattle. Using the industry-standard of 15 gallons of drinking water per head per day, that

Top Republicans Keep Visiting Kansas, Encouraging People to Vote

BY ANNA KAMINSKI

Before Vice President JD Vance was finished speaking Monday in Topeka, Republicans announced President Donald Trump would make his second visit to the state in as many weeks.

The White House has made itself visible in Kansas, drawing thousands to Olathe, the Wichita area and Topeka, and Trump is expected to do the same Saturday morning in Salina.

Top Republicans in the Trump administration have cycled through Kansas in the lead-up to the Nov. 3 midterm election, mostly to campaign for U.S. Sen. Roger Marshall and other Republicans running for public office, including gubernatorial candidate Ty Masterson.

"We're here to get these guys elected," said U.S. Interior Secretary Doug Burgum ahead of Vance taking the stage Monday.

It's a numbers game. Of Kansas' more than

Vice President JD Vance speaks to a crowd on Monday, Oct. 26, in Topeka, urging voters to re-elect U.S. Sen. Roger Marshall (R-Kan.).

2,027,500 registered voters, nearly 902,000 are registered Republicans, and more than 521,000 are registered Democrats. Nearly 579,000 are unaffiliated.

Early voter turnout is up by nearly 50 percent compared to the 2022 midterm elections, according to IKE Lab, an elections data and analysis service from two Wichita State University professors.

More than 245,100 Kansans have voted ahead of Election Day, as of Tuesday. Nearly 112,000 of them were Democrats, nearly 99,000 are Republicans, and around 33,100 are unaffiliated.

Compared to the 2024 election, however, turnout this year is down by nearly 30 percent, particularly among Republicans.

In late October 2024, more than 170,600 Republicans had already turned out to vote while more than 120,500 Democrats had turned out.

But the lagging Republican turnout hasn't caused Republican candidates to shy away from stumping across the state.

"If there's a big blue wave, it's going to crash into a big red wall in Kansas," said Kansas Attorney General Kris Kobach, who is running against Democrat Chris Mann, at the rally.

Vance directly addressed undecided voters Monday. He acknowledged gas prices are up, but blamed it on foreign leaders in the Middle East, who he said drive the price of gas up each time one "throws a tantrum."

He asked the audience: "In one week, are we going to tell the country that Kansas supports America first? Are we going to support a candidate that is fighting for our faith instead of against it? Are we going to support

Annual Kansas Speaks Survey Shows Distrust in Politics, Support for Gov. Kelly

BY SHERMAN SMITH
Kansas Reflector

Gov. Laura Kelly remains the most-liked politician in Kansas, as public support crumbles for U.S. Sen. Roger Marshall, President Donald Trump, the Republican and Democratic parties, and politics at large.

The Docking Institute of Public Affairs at Fort Hays State University released its annual Kansas Speaks survey on Monday, which examines public opinions about politicians and a wide range of topics.

The survey found found unwavering support for Kelly, the two-term Democratic governor who will leave office in January, with 46.9 percent of state residents satisfied with her performance. That level and consistency of support makes her an outlier when compared with Republicans such as Marshall, whose approval fell from 34 percent in 2024 to 26 percent this year, and Trump, whose approved dropped from 43 percent last year to 33 percent in this year’s survey.

Alex Middlewood, who chairs the political science department at Wichita State University, and Michael Smith, a political science professor at Emporia State University, provide questions for the survey and analyze the results. Middlewood said she was surprised by Kelly’s approval rating, especially after Sen. Ethan Corson, the candidate she endorsed for the Democratic nomination for governor, lost the primary.

At the same time, the survey found high levels of distrust in Congress and national politics. Even 26 percent of Republicans say they aren’t happy with Marshall, and 21 percent of Republicans don’t like Trump.

“It is certainly not a good result for a democracy,” Middlewood said. “As a political scientist, of course, I would hope that that spurs people to actually participate in this election. But there is so much voter apathy, and when you have high levels of corruption, or perceptions of corruption, like that, and you have high levels of dissatisfaction, what often happens is that people just

Committee and what we did in that role was we designed methods and standards for the representation of children in court to be sure their interests are properly protected,” he said. “That was mostly focused on instances where children are in need of care due to neglect or other reasons, so we established standards for attorneys who represent those children and certain timelines for how those cases are to be presented to they don't languish in the system for years and years and years and you get as prompt a resolution of those cases as you possibly can, everything else considered.”

Goering has been involved in aspects of protecting children and their rights in court for years and has even served under several Kansas Supreme Court Chief Justices over the years in his role on the Permanency Planning Committee, as well as helping to look out for children and their needs in various other roles including previously being active on the USD 254 Board of Education for 12 years.

“The needs of our schools, the children in our schools, has always been a major concern and focus of mine,” he said. “I think a lot of that goes with being a small town attorney. You have a duty to your client but you also have a responsibility to the community as a whole.”

Although he has made major impacts within state laws and helping children across Kansas, both within the community locally and across the state, he does have one particular case that is the most memorable.

“One of the most memorable ones (cases) was one that went to the United States Supreme Court involving oil and gas royalties,” Goering said. “We won in the lower courts, both the district courts, the Kansas Supreme Court and the United States Supreme Court.

“It was a class action case where we represented thousands of royalty owners who had been kind of cheated out of their royalties when they were suspended by the oil and gas companies and when they finally paid those out they didn’t pay the interest on those royalties so the case was really over the interest that was owed that amounted to several millions of dollars because they had held it so long and because of the amount. We represented land owners, they were from all over the country and even internationally but the wells that they were owed money for were actually in Kansas.”

During that case, he represented local royalty owners from the Barber County area, as well as those from across Kansas, the U.S. and even some international royalty owners, ensuring each person was well represented and advocated for during the entire process.

Goering takes on a wide variety of cases including any and everything that falls under his general practice needs. In order to prepare for each case, the long-time attorney works tirelessly to research every aspect of the case he is presenting, as well as selecting and preparing witnesses. He also prepares all of the documents and ensures he has everything organized in a manner that helps the trial run smoothly on his end in order to be the best advocate he can be for his clients and represent them in the best possible way, in hopes of reaching the desired outcome.

Goering takes pride in working within a small community and being the one that people turn to in times of need. He prides himself on being able to advocate for his clients and building relationships with them and their families for generations, something he says is the reason he enjoys working in Medicine Lodge.

“The thing about being in a small town, the opportunity it affords an attorney is that you end up representing families and generations of families,” he said. “If you’re in a city a lot of your work is going to be transactional. You’ll represent someone one time and probably never see them again, whereas in a small town when you’re representing a person you have that connection with them and that person’s parents and children and their brothers and sisters.

“You can go to the grocery store and you may see them there and you can look at those situations with pride that you have done the best job you could for those folks and that in and of itself is rewarding.”

“I am very very grateful to have selected Medicine Lodge as the place where I started and have continued my career because it has been a very rewarding experience for me, and I hope that I have done some things for the people and the community here that will live on after me,” Goering said.

The local attorney has been in the legal field now for more than 50 years and looks forward to seeing future generations of attorneys begin their careers and become successful as well, and he has one piece of advice for them that he feels is most important: always do the best you possibly can.

“Think about what you can do to help your client and to help people respect the law and the judicial system and the court system because we have a very, very fine system here,” he said. “It has gone through a lot but things usually work out and most people are satisfied they have had a fair hearing even if they didn’t win they feel satisfied that they got the chance to present their case and their evidence to the judge, the judge heard them and the judge made the best decision he could given the facts and under the law and that respect for the courts and for the people you represent just kind of come together to make a satisfying experience for the attorney.”

Goering has worked hard alongside his partner, Robert Slinkard, as well as those within his office who also work tirelessly each day to help the practice run smoothly, and Goering is incredibly grateful for each of them and their dedication to helping not only him as an individual but the law firm as a whole be successful.

“Credit needs to go to my partner, my legal assistants and my secretaries who have worked for me over the years because I couldn’t do it without them and to my wife and children, my children were raised here in Medicine Lodge and both have become very successful, so the community has served me well,” Goering said.

Sen. Marshall, Sec. Burgum Announce New Grazing Initiatives

PRESS RELEASE

This week, U.S. Senator Roger Marshall, M.D. (R-Kan.) joined U.S. Department of the Interior Secretary Doug Burgum, in Topeka, to announce a new initiative to expand grazing opportunities, streamline federal permitting, and strengthen support for America’s ranchers.

The announcement follows Sen. Marshall’s push for expanded grazing access and policies that give cattle producers the tools they need to grow their operations.

Secretary Burgum signed a new Secretary’s Order implementing President Trump’s executive order on Supporting America’s Ranchers. The order establishes the Rangeland Health Initiative, directing Interior Department bureaus to identify additional lands for grazing, reinstate suspended grazing allotments, and use technology to speed up grazing permit renewals.

In September, Senator Marshall and Senator John Barrasso (R-Wyo.) led Senate colleagues in a letter to the Departments of Agriculture and the Interior urging expanded grazing access, finalization of the Bureau of Land Management’s grazing rule, and stronger risk management tools for livestock producers.

“Kansas cattle producers need more access to grazing land, less red tape, and the certainty to invest in their operations and rebuild our nation’s cattle herd,” said Sen. Marshall. “Today’s announcement delivers meaningful results for our ranchers by expanding grazing opportunities and cutting unnecessary bureaucracy.

“Thank you to President Trump and Secretary Burgum for listening to our ranchers, putting their needs first, and delivering for Kansas agriculture and America’s beef industry.”

“Under the leadership of President Trump, we are committed to restoring the promise of our working landscapes and supporting the hardworking American families who depend on them,” said Secretary of the Interior Doug Burgum. “This order cuts through bureaucratic red tape to deliver certainty and flexibility for our nation’s ranchers.

“By promoting healthy rangelands and expanding grazing opportunities, we are strengthening our food supply, reinvigorating rural economies, and ensuring the legacy of American ranching continues for generations to come.”

The order comes as America’s cattle herd sits at its lowest level in roughly 75 years. By expanding access to federal grazing lands and improving the permitting process, the initiative aims to support domestic livestock production, provide ranchers with greater operational certainty, and help strengthen the nation’s beef supply.

Key Provisions of the Order Include

- Expanding Grazing Opportunities
- Streamlining Permitting
- Improving Rangeland Health
- Increasing Transparency
- Protecting Livestock
- Improving Coordination with the United States Department of Agriculture Forest Service.

affects the environment, it affects the culture in terms of what people do for a living out there.”

With election season firmly underway, data centers and their water usage have become a central issue in many local elections throughout the country, including Kansas.

“There are a lot of reasons that people are not thrilled with data centers,” Buchanan said. “The water issue is one that I think you have to approach very carefully because it’s complicated.”

The Project Matador is a large-scale data center project in Texas located within the Ogallala Aquifer. Annually, the project will have access to around 6.75 billion gallons of water, with potential to rise. Kansas, for example, typically uses around 1.6 to 1.9 trillion gallons of water a year, meaning if Matador were theoretically in Kansas, it would equal approximately 0.37 percent-0.43 percent of total water usage yearly.

“It’s a significant amount of water. Is it as much as irrigation? Well, no, nowhere close...” Buchanan said. “Now your argument might be, well it’s better to use the water to grow corn than for a data center, and if you want to make that moral argument, be my guest... But don’t say that it’s the huge news out west.”

Wilson also emphasized the well-established laws regarding water rights in place in Kansas.

“The challenges we have in Kansas with our water, it’s not caused because this is the wild west... Nobody can just come in here, start drilling wells, damming up rivers or diverting water. We have very robust water law.”

The issue in the Ogallala is not all doom and gloom. Research has provided the state with more accurate and achievable goals for cutting back water use in hopes of greater sustainability.

Wilson explained that water pumping cutback estimates are significantly more measured and reasonable now than they were 20 years ago, meaning irrigators do not have to sacrifice nearly as much as originally projected to improve the long-term health of the Ogallala. This comes largely because of improved research and innovative tech developments, as opposed to a genuine resurgence in the aquifer itself.

Democratic gubernatorial candidate Cindy Holscher has promised to continue to fund and implement the Kansas Water Plan, a plan designed to guide the management, conservation and development of water resources in Kansas.

Republican gubernatorial candidate Ty Masterson also expressed a commitment to managing and prioritizing water in Kansas, but with greater control over where the money is going.

Lucas Gomez is a University of Kansas senior from Chicago studying journalism.

don’t participate because they don’t think that their voice matters. They don’t think that voting is going to change anything. Where, again, as a political scientist, that is not true.”

She said those who participate in politics see how they can make change and have higher levels of trust in government.

“When voters have distrust, they’re less likely to participate,” she said. “And so, it’s really this mutually reinforcing cycle where people don’t participate because they don’t have trust. But then they have lower levels of trust because they’re not participating and they’re not seeing any change.”

On the Issues

The weighted online survey results are based on 603 adults who answered 57 questions between Sept. 23 and Oct. 16. They survey examined attitudes on quality of life, economy, sin taxes, Medicaid expansion, family and medical leave, marijuana, abortion, immigration, education, homelessness, guns, petition initiatives, and data centers.

“Ours is one of the first honest-to-goodness public opinion surveys I’ve ever seen asking people about data centers in a way that’s not clearly meant to lead toward a preferred answer for an interest group, pro or con, and I think that’s kind of a big deal. I’m kind of proud of that,” said Emporia State’s Smith.

The survey shows most people are wary of data centers.

A little more than a third said they were aware of a proposal to put a data center in their community.

Most were concerned about energy and water usage and the AI made possible by data centers. More than 40 percent were concerned about data centers being targeted by terrorists or foreign governments, as well as the heat they generate, land use and noise. About one-third were concerned about new solar installations to power data centers.

About 40 percent said they thought data centers would have a negative impact on the economy in the community where they were located, while 30.5 percent anticipated a positive impact.

“In communities like Emporia and others, there are people organizing against the data centers,” Smith said. “And the argument you’re always going to get is, well, that represents the activists. You get a couple hundred people at a town hall meeting in a town with a population of 20,000 ... it’s a tiny percentage of the population. Now we have data about just regular folks, not activists, and overwhelmingly, it’s showing they’re pretty concerned about data centers.”

On other issues: About two-thirds support Medicaid expansion, but only about one-third say they think about it a lot as a political issue.

About two-thirds support legalizing medical marijuana, and nearly 60 percent support recreational use.

Most people had favorable views of “legal immigrants,” while 42.8 percent believe “illegal” immigrants are a danger to public safety.

About 75 percent were comfortable with supporting K-12 schools with their tax dollars, and 53.8 percent said funding education was more important than cutting taxes. About 37 percent preferred to cut taxes.

Most Kansans don’t think people should be able to carry a handgun without a license or permit. They also don’t want guns on college campuses. Wide majorities support keeping guns from people who are dangerous to themselves or others. They also support background checks on sales at gun shows. About 42 percent said there was a gun in their houses.

Nearly 69 percent support paid family and medical leave, while 11.4 percent oppose.

A little more than 51 percent support giving Kansans the ability to place questions on the ballot through petition initiatives, while 12.2 percent oppose the idea. When informed that bordering states have petition initiatives, 58.4 percent supported the idea while 7.7 percent were opposed.

Kansas Life

About half of the survey respondents said Kansas is a good or excellent place to live, a less favorable view than in past years, while 14.4 percent said they plan to leave the state.

Few people think the state’s economy is good. About half think it is getting worse. And when asked to rank the most important issues, 45 percent said the economy was No. 1.

“We wanted to ask, are people actually feeling the economy in their cost of living and what they are paying week to week?” Middlewood said.

The answer: “Kansans are feeling higher cost of living, and so we can make the assumption” that it will influence their votes, she said.

a candidate fighting for American sovereignty?”

Marshall faces a competitive reelection bid for the seat he’s held for a term, facing the Rev. Adam Hamilton, a Democratic Methodist pastor in the Kansas City area.

Marshall has struggled since the primary to outrun scandal. He has faced criticism for medical debt collection practices during his time as an OB-GYN in central Kansas, his time spent in Florida and alleged misuse of public funds.

“I’m asking you to send me back for one more term,” Marshall told the crowd Monday. “Six more years.”

Vance urged attendees not to judge Marshall by what he says but by his actions.

“I don’t want you to just judge him by what he says, because – of course he’s got great ideas, and he says them very well – I want you to judge him by what you couldn’t possibly see, but I do,” Vance said.

He said what’s more important is how Marshall has behaved and acted and “how he fights when the cameras aren’t on.”

Trump, Vance, Marshall, Masterson and others have encouraged their crowds to vote, bring their friends to the polls and pretend Trump is on the ballot.

“The only votes that count are the ones cast,” said U.S. Rep. Derek Schmidt (R-Kan.), who is running for re-election in the 2nd District against veteran and veterinarian Don Coover, at the Topeka rally.

Marshall and Burgum told the crowd their vote “defends freedom” and the political trajectory of Kansas.

“In all of these races, and particularly the Senate race, it’s going to defend the direction of this country, and that changes the direction of the world,” Burgum said at the rally. “That’s how much your vote matters.”

What scares you?

Halloween Phobias

A phobia (pronounced FO-bee-uh) is an extreme fear of something. Are these things you should really fear, or are they things that just need a little more understanding?

A fear of pumpkins is called cucurbitophobia!

A fear of ghosts is called spectrophobia!

Follow the maze. The letters along the correct path spell the word for the fear of bats!

Write the letters in these circles.

Unscramble the letters!

Vampires have a lot of phobias! Alliumphobia is the fear of:

Extra! Extra! Spooky Search
Look through the newspaper to find:
• the scariest item you see
• a pumpkin
• a black cat
• a spider
• a word that rhymes with ghost
• a word containing the letters B-O-O
Standards Link: Research: Use the newspaper to locate information.

Clowning Around

Clowns are all about silliness and fun, right? Right? Well, if clowns freak you out, your fear is known as coulrophobia. Set your fears aside and see if you can find the two identical clowns!

Kid Scoop Puzzler

Catoptrophobia is a fear of mirrors. How many differences can you find between this creature and its reflection?

Standards Link: Reading Comprehension: Follow simple written directions.

MLHS Boy’s Cross Country Qualifies for State Meet

BY BOB MORRIS
Managing Editor

For the first time ever, the Medicine Lodge boy’s cross country team has qualified for a State meet as a team.

“There have always been individuals, but never a team,” said head coach Kami Hahn. “It’s so awesome that they can make school history.”

The Indians placed third as a team at the Class 2A Regional meet

Saturday at Belleville. They finished with 105 points, with Hutchinson Trinity taking first with 56 and Hoxie in second with 80.

Jaxon Baird placed third overall with a personal best time of 17:43.53, Miguel Hernandez ran a personal best time of 18:17.00 and finished 14th, Dakota Hull ran a personal best time of 18:34.64 and finished 20th, Kendall Hall placed 25th with a time of 18:49.82 and Carson Woods placed 52nd with a personal best time of 20:58.34. There were 74 runners who competed.

Hahn noted that Hernandez had been sick the past week but still ran a personal best and that Hall wasn’t 100 percent going into the meet but still did what he needed to do to help the Indians qualify as a team.

“Hopefully we will have kids healthy this week that will boost them for locking in for State,” Hahn said.

Madisyn Day was the only girl who ran for Medicine Lodge Saturday. She finished 20th overall with a time of 23:18.29. There were 48 runners who competed.

The Indians will now head to Wamego for the Class 2A State meet this Saturday. Hahn noted that the Indians are currently tied for third, according to the team times posted from both Regional sites.

The Class 2A boy’s State race will start at 10:35 a.m.

Smith Pleased With Effort at Sterling; Indians Set for Playoffs

BY BOB MORRIS
Managing Editor

Though the Medicine Lodge football team lost its District 8 matchup at Sterling Friday night 54-6, head coach Robert Smith said he thought the Indians did some good things.

“They (Black Bears) were just really, really good,” Smith said. “When I watched the film, I wasn’t all that upset. I saw kids doing what they were supposed to be doing.”

“They were just a step slow on everything. They had little creases that other teams were not able to expose. This team was fast enough to expose. It was a learning experience.”

Smith said he went over the film with the players during the weekend and said he expects the Indians will learn from it and continue to improve.

JASON JUMP / The Premiere

Medicine Lodge’s Mavrik Inslee (1) takes off running for yardage during the Indians’ District 8 football game at Sterling last Friday. Though the Indians lost 54-6, head coach Robert Smith said the players did some good things against a quality team. The Indians will host a first-round playoff game this Friday against Plainville.

“Defensively, we were in the right spots almost all the time,” he said. “They just run the same stuff Sterling has since they were little kids.”

“This is our kids’ first year to run what they’re running. With just that split second, when you’ve got to process something, it puts you a step behind instead of just doing it naturally.”

Smith said he spoke with somebody who he used to coach at Garden Plain, that there are times when Smith has watched film of a game a team won by 50 and was more upset because the players didn’t do the things they needed to do, than he was when watching the Sterling film, despite the 48-point loss.

“(We had) definite improvement,” Smith said. “It’s just second nature rather than having to process it. It’s just such a fast-moving game. You don’t have that luxury of thinking, okay, I’m supposed to go here, instead of doing it instinctively, and we’re not quite there yet.”

In the Sterling game, Mavrik Inslee completed

10 of 22 passes for 58 yards with one touchdown and one interception. His touchdown pass went to Judson Barnard. The Indians were held to 141 yards on offense.

On defense, Tell Thomas led with eight tackles and Mason Ricke had six. Inslee had an interception.

The Indians (4-4) still finished as the District 8 runner-up and will get to host a playoff game. Medicine Lodge will face Plainville this Friday.

“They’re very similar to us in that they’ve lost to bigger schools and beat the schools their size,” Smith said.

The Plainville Cardinals are 3-5 for the season and their wins have come against Republic County 21-0, Sacred Heart 38-8 and Russell 40-7. The Cardinals faced schools such as Norton Community and Thomas More Prep, both ranked among the better teams in Class 2A.

“They have a big, strong quarterback and a good wingback that is actually his brother,” Smith said. “They like to spread it out and they will throw it on you. So we’re going to have to be able to stop all phases of the game.”

“They like to spread it out and run the ball on you. So we’ll have to be physical again.”

The head coach said that the focus in practice will be about some different schemes the Indians will have to run because Plainville plays differently than Sterling. He added that the Indians need to work on quicker execution when on the field.

Lady Indians Lose to Moundridge in Sub State Title Match

SHELBY GRABER PHOTOGRAPHY

BY BOB MORRIS
Managing Editor

The Medicine Lodge volleyball team lost in the Class 2A Sub-State championship game at Moundridge Saturday to end its season.

The Lady Indians got a win in three over Wichita Classical 21-25, 26-24, 25-18 in their first match of the day, while host Moundridge beat Sedgwick in three, 19-25, 25-15, 25-11. The championship match saw the Lady Wildcats hold off the Lady Indians 25-14, 25-18.

Head coach Megan Inslee said the girls had a slow start against Wichita Classical, but she was happy with how they rallied and came back to win the last two games. But against Moundridge, she said, the Lady Indians served well but couldn’t compete with the big hitters the Lady Wildcats had.

Though Medicine Lodge’s season ended with a 28-11 overall record, Inslee said that the girls made a lot of strides this season.

“We improved all season long, which is what we always strive for,” she said. “Our last few league matches were tough but we had an outstanding night at Regionals, not dropping a set all three matches.”

The Lady Indians will graduate four seniors: Emmy Gerdes, Emery Shinliver, Kenzie Cunningham and Aubrey Miltner. Inslee said it will be hard to replace them, particularly Gerdes at setter and Shinliver at libero.

“Our four seniors have been great leaders this year,” Inslee said. “We will definitely miss them.”

But the Lady Indians will return five juniors with a lot of varsity experience: Maryn Inslee, Addie Cope, Kalianna Ruiz, Abby Schreiner and Kourtlyn Lang.

“I think our offense will look quite a bit different as we transition new hitters into some spots, but we should still be very competitive and I expect to have a winning season,” Coach Inslee said.

It’s your future. Let’s protect it.
Together we’ll create a plan to protect what matters most to you.

Chieftains Down Bucklin; Brewster Forfeits Playoff Opener

STAFF REPORT

The South Barber football team rolled past Bucklin 61-13 last Friday to clinch the runner-up spot in District 3 6-Man football.

The Chieftains led 20-6 after the first quarter, then shut out the Red Aces from there while scoring 41 more points to end the game in the third quarter on the mercy rule.

Austin Swonger rushed for 134 yards on 12 carries and completed 20 of 34 passes for 355 yards. He ran for two touchdowns and threw for six.

Steele Smith led the Chieftains in receiving with 176 yards on 11 catches with four touchdowns, while Garen Cantrell added 104 yards receiving on seven catches with one touchdown. Devin Olson added a 40-yard touchdown reception. Cantrell added 30 yards rushing on five carries with one touchdown and Smith had 33 yards rushing on four carries.

On defense, Cantrell led in tackles with 10, Olson had six, Swogner had five and Smith had four. Swonger had an interception and Tyler Archuleta had a defensive fumble recovery.

South Barber (6-2) drew Brewster for its first-round opponent in the playoffs, but Brewster has already forfeited because of a lack of players.

The Chieftains will thus wait for the Regional round of the playoffs, in which they will face the winner of a first-round matchup between Cheylin and Deerfield this Thursday.

South Barber was set to play Deerfield earlier this season but the Spartans forfeited because of a lack of players. The Spartans were able to play other games and finished 3-5.

The Cheylin Cougars, meanwhile, are 6-2 for the season. Their two losses were against Weskan, 54-8, and Wheatland-Grinnell, 54-6. The Cougars finished third in District 4.

Lady Chieftains Lose in Sub State Volleyball Finals

STAFF REPORT

The South Barber volleyball team's season ended in the Class 1A-II Sub-State volleyball championship match Saturday at Hodgeman County.

The Lady Chieftains came away with a 25-20, 25-14 win over Moscow in their first match, while the host Lady Longhorns beat Pawnee Heights 25-10, 25-9.

In the championship match, the Lady Longhorns came away with the win, 25-12, 25-9, ending South Barber's season with a 15-16 overall record.

The Lady Chieftains had a young team this year, with two seniors, Kenslea Schupbach and Miley Turner, who will graduate. South Barber has five juniors, two sophomores and seven freshmen who will be back and look to build upon this past season, which included a runner-up finish at the Norwich tournament and a Regional title.

INDIANS

“It’s just that next level stuff that we’re not doing yet,” Smith said, adding that will be the emphasis as the players watch film.

“We’ll explain to them this is what it’s going to take,” he said. “This is the kind of effort it’s going to take to be where Sterling is. And that’s our goal, eventually.”

Even so, Smith is happy that the Indians achieved a goal of hosing a playoff game. He noted that few may have expected the Indians to play for the District 8 title after an 0-3 start to the season.

But the next objective will be to beat Plainville and move on to the Regional round, Smith said. Should the Indians win, they would face the winner of a first-round game between Thomas More Prep and Bluestem.

“Our goal right now is just to win step by step and improve as we do,” Smith said.

120 Years Ago

Taken from the October 31, 1906 files of The Barber County Index

The voters of Barber County have an opportunity this fall of electing a competent, painstaking surveyor. Emmett McClearey, the democratic candidate for that office, has a set of instruments and knows how to use them. No voter in Barber County, and especially people interested in correctly laid out roads and correct lines between land owners, can afford to fail to vote for him. Dr. J. A. Burnett, the democratic candidate for coroner, should be elected, if for no other reason, because he resides at Kiowa. Medicine Lodge has always had this office and it is only fair that Kiowa should be recognized this time. Dr. Burnett is a fine physician and a very cordial gentleman. This is the last time that the Index can appeal to the voters of Barber County, before election, to vote for E. L. McCracken for sheriff. It has been shown that Mr. McCracken is in every way superior to his opponent on the republican ticket, both from the standpoint of qualification and personal merit. If, after all that has been said, the people blind their eyes to the cause of truth, and elect the republican candidate, theirs is the greater condemnation. This contest will be a test between partisan prejudice and sober judgment. Which side are you on? Both Geo. Guthrie and Billie Kincaid, candidates for register of deeds, are good fellows, but Billie needs the office most. Therefore it would be the kindest act to vote for him. Don't forget Steve Garrison when you go to the polls next Tuesday. He is the democratic candidate for probate judge. He is in every way qualified, has always been a hard working man until sickness disabled him, so that he can not do manual labor. Vote for Steve. Doesn't the editor of the Isabel Herald know that a lawyer who holds a diploma from a law school has the "papers" to practice in the courts? W. H. Cloud is a graduate from an accredited law college of St. Louis. Will the Herald say that its candidate has a diploma of any kind? You can make no mistake by voting for F. F. Root for county clerk. He is a graduate of one of the state's reputable business colleges.

Homer Hoagland returned home Tuesday after serving on the jury at the county seat during court. Mrs. H. W. Skinner, Mrs. C. F. Bucher and Mrs. S. I. Field were hostesses at a party in honor of Miss Mary Forsyth who is a guest of her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Forsyth, at Mrs. Skinner's beautiful home Tuesday evening of last week. There were sixteen guests present who spent the evening at playing rook. The hostesses served dainty refreshments late in the evening.

Christian Endeavor was organized at Union Chapel about a month ago. The following officers were elected: Arch Gilmore, president; Miss Ethel Hull, secretary; Mrs. Williams, treasurer.

Medicine Lodge residents received a small taste of the discomforts and inconveniences that flood victims in central Kansas have been experiencing last week when the heavy rain damaged the flow line of the city water and system and made the water unfit for drinking and of little use for washing purposes. The flow line broke Saturday and city officials immediately distributed notices warning water users to boil all drinking water until the line could be repaired. The water began clearing slightly Tuesday and the line will be completely repaired this week. Fresh water is now being pumped from the city wells into the line and the muddy water has been shut out. Kiowa was practically marooned by the high water with highway 281 leading to Medicine Lodge closed because of the flooding Medicine river, the road south to Burlington and Capron closed because of the rampagous Driftwood creek and highway 14 west of Hardtner closed because of raging Mule creek.

Although all indications point to a gas well in the Wilson Estate No. 2 in the Barbara Oil Company's test at the Medicine Lodge gas field, the drillers are in for some work before they bring it in as tools have been stuck in the hole since Sunday. Drilling of the well began on Sunday morning and the tools became hung up that evening at 4648 feet, according to Warren Rodgers, of the Barbara Oil Company.

The Medicine Lodge Indians have all but bowed out of their usual position as title contenders for the Southern Kansas League conference but another Barber County team, the Kiowa Chieftains, are showing strong indications of having what it takes to capture the town's first loop championship since the league was organized in 1933.

Plans for organization of a national U. S. 281 association in six states were discussed at the annual meeting of the Kansas association in Osborne Thursday, according to members of a delegation from Medicine Lodge who attended the session. Representatives from here who were present at the meeting were E. E. Lake, J. H. Trice and H. A. Palmer. S. A. Harrison, president of the association, was unable to attend due to illness. Particular attention was given to three unfinished gaps in the highway in Kansas when the meeting voted, again unanimously, to leave routing of the highway entirely to the highway commission. The three gaps are from Lebanon to the Nebraska line, from Luray to Osborne and from Pratt to the Oklahoma line. State Commissioner

Al Hancock assured the meeting that the Osborne-Luray gap already is in the 1942 program.

Barber County's oldest resident turned another leaf on the calendar last week reaching in longevity to just one-year behind the century mark. He is T. J. McGuire, who was 99 Friday. McGuire, a pioneer of the Sharon community was suitably honored with a family birthday dinner at the home of Mrs. Mazie DeWitt, Lake City, a daughter with whom he now makes his home. About 50 persons attended his 99th birthday party Sunday.

Pictured above is a 1960 Ford which was driven by Mrs. Maud Jacques of Medicine Lodge Monday. Her car came to a stop after ripping out a corner of Bernice's Beauty Shop located at 1102 N. Walnut. The car then traveled north through a vacant lot before striking a 1967 Camaro owned by Willis L. Chapin at 2101 N. Walnut. The car then went through Chapin's carport, fence and finally came to rest against a tree. Damage was estimated at $8,000 to Bernice's Beauty Shop and Jacques vehicle was totalled. Damage at the Chapin residence was not available.

Oct. 2 - Matthew Lee Scripsick, 8:21 p.m., 7 lbs., 13 3/4 ozs., to Mr. and Mrs. Dave Scripsick, Sharon.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Glenn were honored with a reception at the Christian Church October 10 in observance of their 25th wedding anniversary. Hosts for the reception were their three children, Sharon, Janet and Carl Glenn.

In the first round Medicine Lodge drew a bye with the chance of coming up against Hugoton or Langdon-Fairfield. Hugoton won and came into the second round to play the Indians. Medicine got an early lead on the Eagles and then let them come back to tie the game at 14-14. Team captain, Solveig Brant, then served the two points needed to win the game. Pam Prewett was the leader in scoring with eight points. In the second game the Indians came back, red hot, to defeat Hugoton 15-4 in an easy victory. Anita Mayfield and Sharla Moss were responsible for serving 13 of the 15 points made. Cindy Platt and Kim Waller, although not responsible for many points, were involved in many plays and sets that are very important to good team work.

Seniors Betty Pina, Wendy Wornkey and Kristi Danahy prepare the Senior Wall on Oak Street for this year's MLHS 1997 seniors. The wall is painted every year and decorated by the senior class.

Miss Sidni Van Allen of Medicine Lodge has been selected to attend the National Young Leaders Conference from October 29 to November 3, 1996.

Sports Profile: Senior Justin Ricke is the son of Jerome and Susan Ricke. Ricke is usually referred to as J.R. or "Jar" during football season. J.R. is one of many great leaders of the Indian football team. J.R. said the best thing about being an Indian is playing with a great bunch of team spirited guys. "Everyone has such great pride, Indian Pride," said Ricke.

MLHS Cheer Leader: Christi Cunningham is a sophomore at Medicine Lodge High School, and is a member of the volleyball team, the MLHS Band, and plans to play basketball. Christi said she's had fun cheering the teams on and enjoyed getting to know the other girls on the squad. "I've also learned a lot about good sportsmanship," Christi said.

MLPD Euthanize Suspected Rabid Skunk

On Monday, officers with the Medicine Lodge Police Department responded to a skunk suspected of being rabid.

Due to public safety concerns, officers had to euthanize the animal.

“We would like to remind everyone to use caution when encountering wildlife, especially animals exhibiting unusual or aggressive behavior,” a statement said on a social media post.

Please remember:

- Do not approach, touch, or attempt to capture wild animals.
- Keep children and pets away from unfa-

• Be cautious of animals that appear disoriented, unusually friendly, aggressive, or are behaving abnormally.

If you encounter an animal acting suspiciously, keep your distance and contact the Medicine Lodge Police Department at the non-emergency number (620) 930-6573.

Please do not attempt to handle the situation yourself.

“The safety of our residents, their families, and their pets is our priority,” the MLPD said in its online statement. “Thank you for helping us keep our community safe!”

County Traffic Stops Lead to Drug Arrests

A pair of traffic stops by the Barber County Sheriff's Department over the past several days have led to drug arrests. One stop for "failure to maintain a lane," on Monday, led to the discovery of 5 grams of suspected methamphetamine. Randy Crockett was arrested by the sheriff's department and transported to the Harper County Jail.

Two days earlier a vehicle was pulled over for “inoperable brake lights. That stop resulted in the discovery of 3 ounces of marijuana, as well as drug paraphernalia. Two arrests were made in that stop – Charla Zahnter and Sergio Marquez. Charges included possession and distribution of marijuana, possession of drug paraphernalia, two counts of child endangerment and driving while suspended.
